

January 13, 1955

Sue Hackl

Services for Miss Sue Hackl, 79, a former resident of this city, and who died Monday of last week at Holy Infant Hospital at Hoven, S. D., were held Thursday morning at St. Anthony's church. The Rev. Carlton P. Herman officiated and burial was at Hoven.

Miss Hackl was editor of the Hoven Review for many years prior to her retirement in 1946. The plant was destroyed by fire in 1942 and throughout the remainder of World War II she drove back and forth to Gettysburg, where her paper was published by facilities of the Potter County News.

A leader in community improvements, Miss Hackl was active in raising funds for St. Anthony's church, Holy Infant Hospital and for a new school. She was a leader in many other community projects. She was the last surviving member of the Progressive Club of Hoven. She was honored recently by 4-H clubs of Potter County for her years of service as a girls' leader.

Miss Hackl was born in Luxemburg, Iowa, on Feb. 11, 1875. She lived in Groton before moving to Hoven in 1925. Survivors are three sisters, Mrs. Teresa Moren, St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Pauline Walsh, Seattle, Wash., and Lena B. Hackl, Hoven, and one brother, Paul J. Hackl, Hoven.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Funk and Mrs. George Hine of this city and Miss Amelia Hilbert of Bath attended the last rites.